Unlike his successors, the 'Archer' type of gold Dinars of Samudra Gupta are extremely rare. This coin has a 'Western variant' of the letter 'M' in 'Samudra' suggesting it was struck in the Western parts of the Empire which must have been taken from successors of the Kushans. 'Apratirathah', the title which means 'Unassailable', probably has a reference to the growing power of Samudra Gupta.

Heavy weight Dinars bearing the name of Chandra Gupta are confined to the Eastern regions of the Empire. A variety with dagger in the sash is extremely rare. According to some scholars, the heavier weight of these coins and the similarity they bear with later Gupta coins suggest that they were issued by a king named 'Chandra Gupta III' who ruled in the East during the post-Kumara Gupta period.

Rhodes & Bose ("The Coinage of Assam, part 1, p. 74) comment that "No historical ruler with the name Chakra is known to us from mid-seventh century, but our tentative suggestion is that he was a ruler who chose to place his name on coins after the death of Bhaskaravarman in c. 655 AD". This inference is drawn from the fact that the coin resembles issues of Sasanka of Gauda and Bhaskaravarman of Assam and therefore must be placed in mid-7th century AD.

Similar coin was sold in Spink (London) Auction on 26th March 2013, Lot No. 105 at £ 24,000.

This extremely rare and important coin is perhaps one of the 30000 coins specially struck by Krishnadeva Raya in 1516, to perform a Kanakābhishekam ("Shower of Gold") ceremony at the Tirupati temple, to thank the Lord for his victory over the Kondavidu and Gajapati dynasties of neighbouring Andhra-Orissa country. It shows a truly splendid depiction of Venkateshwara, in all its jewelled glory on obverse. As compared with it the simplicity of the reverse stands out as a testimony to the King's devotion and subservience to the Lord. A numismatic masterpiece!

A Rare and unusual coin struck to a higher and probably 'special' weight standard. The name of the Sultan is given in an Indian fashion using the 'name-patronymic-surname' formula. The marginal legend runs clockwise, which is a feature seldom encountered on Sultanate coins of India.

Sultans of Ahmadnagar

161. Nizam Shahi Sultans of Ahmadnagar, Gold Hon of Murtaza Nizam Shah I (1565-1588 AD), struck to a light-weight standard, AH 993, (G&G N1), 2.9g. Obv: Shi'a version of Kalima, with 'Ali Wali-allah added to the usual Muhammad Rasool Allah. Rev: Legend in two parts - the lower of which is the AH date 993 in words. At the top the name of the Sultan 'Murtaza' can be seen, but the inscription in the second line has not yet been satisfactorily read. It is in all likelihood a religious invocation suggesting 'Help us in Time'. About Extremely Fine, Very Rare.
Sold for : ₹ ..... Estimate : ₹ 1,25,000 - 1,50,000

This is the earliest dated Gold coin of any of the Deccani Sultanate succeeding the Bahmanis. It is also a rare instance of the Shi'a version of the Kalima appearing on an Indian coin as only two other instances are noted of its numismatic appearance in India - the first being the issues of Burhan Nizam Shah II, the successor of Murtaza I and the second, issues of Humayun struck as a vassal of Safavid kings of Iran at Qandahar. The Safavid or Iranian connection of the Nizam Shahi Sultans is also very evident in the design of the coin with calligraphy comparable to many contemporary Iranian issues. This gives a clear indication of the political alignment of the Deccani Sultans with Iran due to their shared faith of Shi'aism.

162. Nizam Shahi Sultans of Ahmadnagar, Silver coin of Burhan Nizam Shah II (1591-1595 AD), Burhanabad Mint, 6.85g. of exceptional numismatic importance, unpublished and unique so far. Obv: Shia version of Kalima (with 'Ali Wali Allah' added) in multi-lobed 'Mihirabi' names of Shia Imams in the margins. Rev: Arabic legend Zarb Burhanabad Sanah in circle, truncated marginal inscription not fully read but appears to have the name of the ruler al-Sultan Burhan Nizam Shah. 2nd Specimen known so far. About Very Fine, Very Rare.
Sold for : ₹ ..... Estimate : ₹ 80,000 - 1,00,000

The Silver coins of the Nizam Shahi Sultans are a recent discovery - none were reported in G&G. It has a very interesting weight which does not fit into any known weight-standards. It is likely that the weight was copied from Ottoman issues of Mehmet III from the region of Persian Gulf. The calligraphy and design of the coin is strongly influenced by Safavid coinage of Iran and points to the Persian influence that reached the Shia sultanate of Ahmadnagar through peoples and trade through the ports situated on the Konkan Coast and controlled by its rulers. The coin can therefore be viewed as an excellent example of cross-cultural and trans-regional influences in numismatics of regional Deccani Sultanates. Its uniqueness adds considerably to this significance.

Goron & Goenka list the AH date for this type as 891, however a comparison with this coin makes it clear that it is 899, much closer to 902 observed on the succeeding type G78.

This is perhaps the earliest Ilahi type Gold Mohur of Akbar and the countermarked year '30' is the earliest reference to the Ilahi reckoning system which subsequently became a major feature of Akbar's coinage. Akbar promulgated the Ilahi Era in AH 992/1584 AD. It was reckoned from Akbar's accession in AH 963/1556 AD, so '30' would correspond to the year in which the era was launched. An 'Ilahi' year began at the Vernal Equinox every year, with the celebration of the Iranian festival of Nowruz. The calendar had twelve Persian months and was devised by Fathullah Shirazi, a Persian/Indian polymath.

Similar coin was sold in Baldwin New-York Auction XXIII on 6th January 2010, Lot No.: 353 at $15,000.

This Rare Mohur, unlisted in major references on Mughal coins is interesting because in AH 1016, other major mints in Jahangir's empire like Agra and Lahore had been striking heavy-weight coins. It is possible that this Mohur, which is of a normal weight, was struck at Kabul, just before the orders of the currency reform were received by the officials there.
